

The – previously excellent – universities in the Congo have severely suffered from the difficult circumstances during the past decades. The buildings, the instrumentation, and the libraries are, in part, in a critical situation.

Even worse are the over-aging and decreasing scientific quality of parts of the academic staff and the lack of excellent up-and-coming young scientists.

We, the Förderverein Uni Kinshasa e.V. (NGO for the Support of the University of Kinshasa, fUNIKIN), want to break this vicious circle by a privately financed excellence scholarship system, BEBUC!

Together with the German foundation Else-Kröner-Fresenius-Stiftung we presently support about 190 young excellent students at 16 Congolese universities, eight high schools, and one primary school: in Kinshasa, Kikwit, and Mbanza Ngungu in the West (see photo 6), in Butembo (2) and in Goma (3) and in Bukavu (1) in the East, in Mbuji-Mayi in the Center (5), in Lubumbashi in the South (4), and in Kisangani (also in photo 3) in the North of the country. This enables them to study rapidly and in depth in the Congo and later abroad. After their PhD they shall return to Africa as young professors and shall further transfer their knowledge to Congolese students.

Please help us provide young excellent students in the Congo with a perspective and to transform the Congolese universities back to what they could be: excellent places for research and education, and an engine for the reconstruction of the country.

Happy about their prolonged or new scholarships: Excellence scholars from all subjects and stages of their studies (school pupils, bachelor, master, and PhD students, and re-entry scholars).
